Mission Statement

Kenrick-Glennon Seminary is a community of faith, formation, and learning, located in the Archdiocese of St. Louis, preparing men for the Roman Catholic priesthood of Jesus Christ.

Under the guidance of the Holy Spirit and to the praise of God the Father, we cultivate the human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral gifts of candidates for the diocesan ministry.

To this end, we commit ourselves to a responsible and effective stewardship of resources, carrying on our recognized tradition of service to the Church.

Seminary Enrollment Continues at Historic High Levels

The 2009-2010 academic year sees seminary enrollment continuing at a twenty-year high level, attained last year. This year we have 115 seminarians, 92 in the Kenrick School of Theology (including 25 in pre-theology) and 23 in the Cardinal Glennon College program.

There would not be sufficient space for the current seminarians this year if we had not added additional rooms last year.

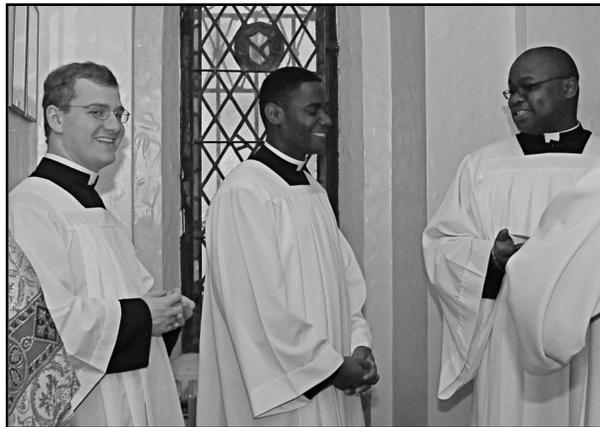

President-Rector Msgr. Ted Wojcicki views the continuing trend of increased enrollment with a sense of gratitude.

“We are blessed with the continued generosity of the faithful who are providing resources so that we can improve and expand the facilities to meet the needs of our growing student body.”

This year Msgr. Wojcicki observes a level of excitement as the seminary community welcomes its new shepherd, Archbishop Robert J. Carlson.

“While the involvement of Archbishop Burke and of Bishop Hermann in recent years had been a great source of

An Early Thanksgiving

BY MSGR. TED WOJCICKI
PRESIDENT-RECTOR
KENRICK-GLENNON SEMINARY

THANK YOU!!!

Thanksgiving has arrived early at Kenrick-Glennon Seminary this year. I am grateful for all who have responded so generously to the Faith for the Future Capital Campaign for Kenrick-Glennon Seminary. I am grateful to all who have donated generously to the campaign in its advance phase over the last two years. Many of the donors in this advance phase offered remarkably generous gifts which have provided a solid foundation for the campaign before it entered the current parish phase. I would like to express a special word of gratitude to pastors and to their parish teams who have stepped forward to provide leadership for all the activities connected with the Faith for the Future campaign in their individual parishes.

The early returns from the parish phase of the Faith for the Future capital campaign are very positive. Parish pastors and parish team leadership have called the seminary excitedly to report on the generosity of their parishioners; oftentimes, they also were very pleased that their parish would exceed its goal by a good margin. The success indicated in these positive reports would not be possible without the leadership, direction, and encouragement of the dedicated pastors. Many of our pastors are alumni of our seminary and their leadership will help ensure that the coming generations will also have “strong, loving, and wise” pastors to serve their spiritual needs.

The leadership at the archdiocesan level has been most significant beginning with the initiative of Archbishop Raymond Burke a number of years ago. Archbishop Robert Carlson has provided strong leadership at many levels. This leadership has continued through the Archdiocesan Chief Development Officer, Mr. Frank Cognata, and his staff. May God bless in a special way Bishop Robert Hermann who has worked diligently for the success of this campaign now for a number of years. Of course this success at the parish level is largely possible in its daily activities due to each parish’s campaign team. I am quite aware that these parishioners already have responsibilities to their families, to their parishes, and to their communities; I am humbled that they are finding time to dedicate to the mission of the seminary. I can assure all of them that such dedication is an inspiration to myself and to all who are privileged to serve at the seminary.

Also playing a significant part in promoting the campaigns at the parish level are the seminarians who speak in the parish churches in support of the campaign and the mission of the seminary. As always the seminarians are enthusiastically received by the parishioners—they sometimes even offer the seminarians spontaneous applause! I have heard reports from a number of the parish campaign chairs that some parishioners have even decided to increase significantly the amount they had intended to pledge once they have heard the message from the seminarian. I am confident that the good people of God will continue to respond generously to this campaign supporting the seminary (which is preparing the future priests for the church) in gratitude for the service they have received from the priests in previous generations. A campaign for the seminary is a campaign for priesthood.

A special word of gratitude is due also to the seminary faculty and staff who provide wonderful programs for priestly formation for this present generation of seminarians. I also offer appreciation to the seminarians themselves who inspire the people of God both when the parishioners visit the seminary and when the seminarians visit the parishes. After all, the seminarians are a sign of a “future full of hope” both for the seminary staff and for the people of God.

While the generous response to this campaign supports improvements to the building infrastructure and establishes an endowment for the seminarians, the annual Christmas collection helps offset ongoing operating expenses. Members of the Kenrick-Glennon Society make a special commitment each year to support the ongoing costs associated with the education and formation of our seminarians. This year we will have the opportunity to continue the Christmas tradition for the Catholics in the Archdiocese of St. Louis and make a gift in this way to support the men preparing for the priesthood at Kenrick-Glennon Seminary.

Whenever the good people of God visit the seminary for any reason, they experience a seminary community which is truly a happy, healthy, and holy place. Upon departing from the building after a reception, one guest noted, “The highlight of our evening was the time we spent praying with the seminarians in the chapel. We can sense their faith and dedication in our prayer with them.” Yes, I have experienced an early Thanksgiving this year.

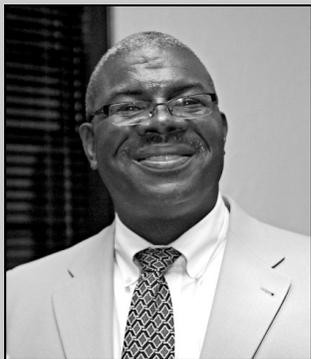

Nathan Doerr (Archdiocese of St. Louis, College IV), Andy Syring (Archdiocese of Omaha, Theology III), and Deacon Craig Holway (Archdiocese of St. Louis, Theology IV) work together to assign seminarians to speak about the Faith for the Future seminary capital campaign at parishes in the Archdiocese of St. Louis.

Parish Volunteers Bolster Faith for the Future

On Tuesday, August 18th, Kenrick-Glennon Seminary hosted a reception for parish volunteer leaders of the Faith for the Future seminary capital campaign. The reception offered an opportunity for the parish leaders to experience the seminary first-hand and for the seminary to thank them for the generous commitment of their time and talent. The Herald asked the volunteer leaders, whose duties include organizing meetings as well as making calls and personal visits, why this effort was important enough to warrant an investment of their valuable time. This is what they had to say:

MOST HOLY TRINITY CATHOLIC CHURCH, ST. LOUIS

MR. KENNETH PATTERSON

“Being active in a parish where the Church was built in 1929, around the same time that the seminary was built, I can identify with the need to maintain the seminary building as a part of responsible stewardship. Our priests are doing well. We all acknowledge the value of higher education for the future of our children and are ready to lend our support. What could be more important than providing for the education of the future leaders of our Church?”

ST. MARY MAGDELENE CATHOLIC CHURCH, BRENTWOOD

MSGR. C. EUGENE MORRIS, PASTOR

“This campaign is about the future of the priesthood in our Archdiocese. The future of the Church is at stake. Without priests, there is no Church.”

MR. BART MILLER

“The seminary is what we as Catholics -and especially St. Louis Catholics- can take great pride in. The formation of our priests is essential to our Faith. To me, supporting this effort goes along with all that we are as Catholics. That’s why I’m involved with Faith for the Future—to help grow the understanding of Jesus in our daily lives by helping to form the best priests we can.”

ST. LUKE THE EVANGELIST CATHOLIC CHURCH, RICHMOND HEIGHTS

MS. SUE FARRARA

“It’s important to invest in the future of the priesthood. The seminary is the place where our future priests receive the tools to become the priests we expect them to be. People think nothing of putting $50,000 into one year of their child’s education. Where are we if we’re not willing to invest in a priest’s education?”

OUR LADY OF GUADALUPE CATHOLIC CHURCH, FERGUSON

MR. GERARDO RODRIGUEZ

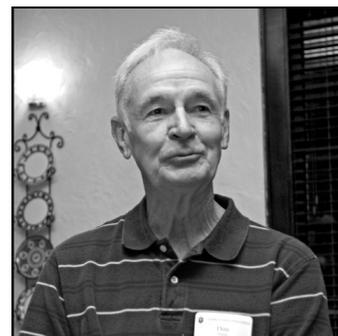

“It’s about building up the Church. It’s about forming men to be good priests. The seminary is a priest’s foundation for his entire life of service to God’s people.”

ST. PATRICK CATHOLIC CHURCH, WENTZVILLE

MR. DAN O’CONNELL

“When we see the priest, we see Christ. As lay faithful our generosity will help our priests to be faithful to their calling to bring Christ to others. We must be generous. God will not ask more of us than we are able to give.”

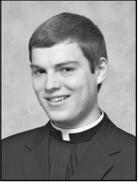

ST. PATRICK CATHOLIC CHURCH, WENTZVILLE

MR. DON THIEME

“When I retired, I decided to dedicate my time to giving back to the Church. More recently, I’ve had the privilege of getting to know Fr. Nick Muenks and Anthony Gerber. This wonderful experience makes me want to do all I can to support the priestly formation of men like Fr. Muenks and Anthony.”

Seminary Welcomes Fr. Jay Harrington, O.P.

BY REV. MR. DYLAN SCHRADER
THEOLOGY IV

The Second Vatican Council determined that seminarians “are to be formed with particular care in the study of the Bible, which ought to be, as it were, the soul of all theology” (Optatam totius § 16). Kenrick-Glennon Seminary is working to fulfill this mandate and, to this end, is pleased to welcome Fr. Jay Harrington, O.P., to the seminary community. As an Associate Professor of Sacred Scripture, he brings a love of the Word of God, especially as transmitted in the inspired writings, and a knowledge of the methods of biblical studies that will help the seminarians to meet Christ in the Bible and to preach competently.

Fr. Harrington, a native of Waterloo, Iowa, is a friar of the Central Dominican Province of St Albert the Great. He has received, among other degrees, a Doctorate of Sacred Theology with a concentration in the New Testament and a PhD in Religious Studies from the Catholic University of Louvain in Belgium. Much of Fr. Harrington's research has focused on the passion and resurrection narratives in the Synoptic Gospels.

The Kenrick-Glennon Seminary community is now honored to count Fr. Harrington among its faculty.

Fr. Harrington is pictured presenting to one of his classes. Fr. Harrington was appointed as an Associate Professor at the seminary in the Fall of 2009.

An alumnus of Kenrick Seminary, Monsignor Elmer H. Behrmann is one of 2,700 priests who have gone through St. Louis Archdiocesan seminaries. These priests contribute to the archdiocese's excellence in education, social services, and the sacramental life of the Church.

Alumnus a Special Education Pioneer

BY MSGR. NICHOLAS A. SCHNEIDER
ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. LOUIS

In 1946 Father Elmer Behrmann started a master's degree at St. Louis University to prepare for work as a high school administrator. There he learned that government statistics for 1944 classified an estimated 12.4% of children in the United States as “exceptional,” of which 2% were mentally retarded, with only 11% of the latter receiving any special education.

The St. Louis Archdiocese had schools for blind and deaf children, but only St. John the Baptist School had a classroom for children with other disabilities. Father placed a notice in the archdiocesan newspaper encouraging parents of children with special needs to contact him. One hundred and seventy responses convinced him to dedicate his life to educating exceptional children.

From 1950 to 1980 he established thirty-one rooms for special education in as many parishes. Six special schools were established, and twenty-three programs of catechetical instruction were provided at parishes for children not enrolled in the all-day classes. St. Mary's residential school for children living outside the St. Louis area was opened in 1952. Later St. Joseph's Vocational Center and two Group Homes were added. During a forty year period several thousand children were assisted, and his program became the model for dioceses throughout the country. Monsignor Behrmann continued as Director of the Department of Special Education until his retirement in 1989.

Msgr. Nicholas A. Schneider, ordained on March 17, 1956, attended Cardinal Glennon College and Kenrick Seminary. Msgr. Schneider, a prolific writer, has authored six books and over thirty articles for ecclesiastical journals.

Seminarian Spotlight

St. Paul used all methods at his disposal to “go into all the world, preaching the Gospel and making disciples.”

The Herald asked a group of Transitional Deacons: “In your future priestly ministry, what role will modern day technology play in your evangelistic endeavors of going into all the world, preaching the Gospel and making disciples of all nations?”

REV. MR. CRAIG HOLWAY, ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. LOUIS, THEOLOGY IV

I think things like maintaining a blog or a website can be great tools of evangelization. On a blog or website, a priest can post homilies or new stories that can keep Catholics connected. I've used my cell phone as a prop in a homily to talk about the need to stay connected: as we use cell phones and email to keep connected to friends and family, so we need to use prayer and sacraments to stay connected to God. I'm finding Facebook is a valuable tool to stay in touch with friends, family, and people I've met over the years. If I can stay connected to God in prayer, and friends and family with the help of the internet and other technologies, I can preach the Gospel wherever the need arises.

REV. MR. ZACHARY KAUTZKY, DIOCESE OF DES MOINES, THEOLOGY IV

Everyone likes a good story. Story-telling has been an important method of communication since the beginning and continues to speak to the heart of the hearer today. Jesus taught using parables to which the people of His culture could relate. Sacred Scripture itself is a love story between God and mankind. Knowing this, we can utilize striking examples, images, and stories to inspire, challenge, and teach those entrusted to our care.

REV. MR. JOHN MICHAEL VOITHOFER, ARCHDIOCESE OF OMAHA, INTERCESSORS OF THE LAMB, THEOLOGY IV

The ramped use of modern day technology is precisely what I would use to bring souls into relationship with Christ. What do I mean? In my experiences of ministering to others, I have discovered that modern technology is often used as an escape from attending to our interior life. Instead of contemplating the deepest desires and longing that God has placed in our hearts for himself, we often find ourselves busied with sending text messages, answer our cell phones, or responding to email etc... The most fundamental and basic cry of every human heart is created for intimacy with God. Even our ramped use of modern technology is a reflection of our yearning to connect with God. In the Acts of the Apostles, St. Paul spoke to a people that were seeking a similar intimate connection. He said, “For as I walked around looking carefully at your shrines, I even discovered an altar inscribed, 'To an Unknown God.' What therefore you unknowingly worship, I proclaim to you!” (Acts 17:23-24) Let us not be afraid to listen to, experience, and respond, in faith, to our heart's desire for God.

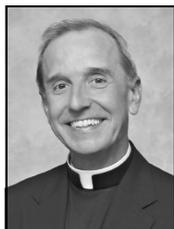

REV. MR. MATTHEW BENJAMIN, DIOCESE OF KANSAS CITY – ST. JOSEPH, THEOLOGY IV

With modern technology, the world we live in is much smaller than that of St. Paul's. Our ability to communicate in an instant has made all of us neighbors, and this can be used for great good. I believe that if we are to be as successful in our mission of spreading the Gospel as St. Paul, holiness is the answer. To continue to strive for holiness, we use the gifts we've been given more effectively with the intercession of our Holy Mother, and the Grace of God, encouraging all to go to Jesus in the silence of Eucharistic Adoration. “For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, has shone in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God, in the face of Christ Jesus” (2 Cor. 4:6).

Faculty News and Notes

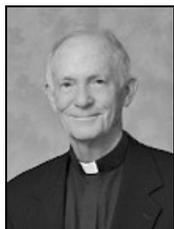

Msgr. Ted L. Wojcicki, President-Rector, was the featured speaker at an event sponsored by Credo of the Catholic Laity on September 13, at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Clayton. In honor of the year for priests, announced by our Holy Father, Pope Benedict XVI, the topic of his lecture was 'Priest, Pastor, and Good Father'. Among the topics addressed by Msgr Wojcicki in his presentation were: his own vocation story of his call to priesthood; some reflections on priests he admired for their witness of virtue; some central themes of the seminary's work of priestly formation; ways that the membership can be supportive of vocations; how a priest serves as a spiritual father. Msgr. Wojcicki was also honored as Man of the Year at the Annual Benefit Dinner of the Daughters of St. Paul on October 11, at the Cedars at St. Raymond's Maronite Cathedral.

Dr. John Gresham, Assistant Professor of Systematic Theology and Adjunct Professor for Paul VI Pontifical Institute of Catechetical and Pastoral Studies, Permanent Diaconate Formation, and Carmelite Sisters of the Divine Heart of Jesus, spoke on "The Spirit of Truth Calls us into Mission" for the Pentecost Day of Renewal hosted by the Catholic Renewal Center at Holy Redeemer Church in Webster Groves. His article, "Religion in a Culture of Science, Skepticism, and Do-it-yourself Spirituality" appeared in the September issue of Liguorian. He gave a talk at the Archdiocesan Religious Education Institute on August 10 at Saint Louis University. The talk was entitled "Jesus is Lord! Teaching the Deity of Christ."

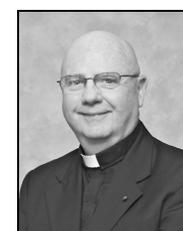

Msgr. Edmund Griesedieck, Associate Spiritual Director, attended, along with Fr. Kristian Teater, the 5th Annual Healing and Deliverance/Exorcism Conference at Mundelein Seminary. Of particular interest was the presentation on revisiting and renewing the use of the Sacrament of Reconciliation and our preparation for this Sacrament. Fr. Dennis McManus emphasized in his presentation that, just as the renewal of Eucharistic Adoration brought about spiritual renewal in this country, so greater emphasis on the Sacrament of Reconciliation would further the moral renewal of our Church. Speakers stressed the need for parish priests to become more aware and competent in responding to people who need the ministry of Deliverance prayer.

Dr. Susanne Harvath, Coordinator of Human Formation Services and Professor of Pastoral Counseling, received the "St. John Vianney Award" from Friends of Priests. Dr. Harvath was the sixth individual to receive this honor, which is bestowed each year upon an individual who helps to improve the state of the priesthood and vocations in an extraordinary way. The Mass took place at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church in St. Charles, Missouri on October 24th.

Fr. Jack Hunthausen, S.J., Spiritual Director, spent two months this past summer ministering at Queen of Peace Catholic Church, a diocesan parish in Aurora, Colorado. This was the fourth time over the past seven years that he has assisted there.

Dr. Sebastian Mahfood, Associate Professor of Intercultural Studies and Coordinator of Instructional Technology, made his first profession in the Dominican Laity on Sunday, November 1, 2009, at Jesuit Hall across from College Church on the campus of St. Louis University.

Fr. Thomas K. McDermott, O.P., S.T.D., Assistant Professor of Spiritual Theology and Associate Director of Spiritual Formation, wrote two articles. "Catherine of Siena, Living the Lenten Message" was published in the February issue of Liguorian. "Catherine of Siena and Paul of Tarsus" appeared in the 2009 issue of Spirituality.

Dr. Daniel G. Van Slyke's article titled, "The Ordo of Exorcist among the Latin Fathers: Reconsidered in Light of Martin of Tours," appears in the Roman journal for liturgical studies Ephemerides Liturgicae this fall. During the summer, Dr Van Slyke also reviewed Derek Rivard's book, Blessing the World: Ritual and Piety in Medieval Religion, for The Catholic Historical Review, and Brian Spinks' two-volume history of baptism for the journal Usus Antiquior. In May, he addressed a crowd of young adults gathered for "Theology on Tap" in Madison, Wisconsin, on the movie, "Angels and Demons." On a more personal note, Dr. and Mrs. Van Slyke rejoiced at the birth of their sixth child, Josephine Felicity, in March.

From the O'Brien Family

Kenrick-Glennon Seminary is pleased to announce the appointment of an alumnus ordained in 2007, Fr. John J. O'Brien, as the Academic Dean and Associate Dean of Men at Cardinal Glennon College.

Fr. O'Brien is also currently part time Associate Pastor at St. Clement of Rome Catholic Church in Des Peres. Most recently, Fr. O'Brien served as Associate Pastor at Blessed Teresa of Calcutta Catholic Church in Ferguson and as Adjunct Professor of Theology for Cardinal Glennon College. The Herald recently spoke with John and Renee O'Brien, Fr. O'Brien's parents, who reflected on the role of Kenrick-Glennon Seminary in their son's life.

How do you feel about your son's new assignment?

We are always happy when the children are being productive and when they're learning and growing in positive settings, so this is a good assignment. He enjoys and appreciates the academic side of things, and he likes teaching, so the fact that he gets to teach a couple of courses is very agreeable to him. Likewise, he has long expressed an interest in promoting vocations, so we know he will enjoy working with seminarians as they discern their vocations. And best of all, he has another terrific assignment in a vibrant parish that affords strong mentorship. He'll be fully engaged under strong directors, so it's pretty ideal.

When did you first think your son might want to be a priest?

He told us he thought he would like to be a priest when he was six or seven. We took him seriously and tried to provide a nurturing environment for a vocation. Between his junior and senior years in high school he was certain enough about it to make plans to enter the seminary after graduation to test his call. After that, he just kept advancing from semester to semester until he was ordained in May of 2007.

Describe the role that Kenrick-Glennon Seminary has played in Fr. O'Brien's life and in the life of your family.

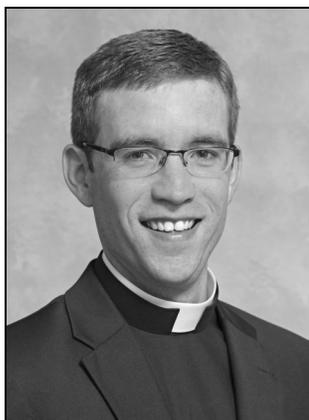

Any seminary is about its leadership and staff and he has always expressed great admiration for the Archbishops under whom he has served, as well as the administrative staff and the faculty.

He is very enthusiastic about helping to establish our archdiocesan seminary as one of the best in the world.

Our family has enjoyed a very happy relationship with the Seminary over the years, not just with regard to John, but for all of our children who have spent time there over the years with Kenrick-Glennon Days, ChristPower and various family-orientated Liturgies and events. We feel very welcome and at peace on the campus.

What reasons would you give for someone to consider Kenrick-Glennon Seminary when planning their charitable giving?

A contribution to the Seminary is really a contribution to the core of the Church. Excellent priests are mission-critical in our place and time. They don't grow on or fall out of trees. We have to deserve them, develop them and deliver them to the flock. That's what Kenrick-Glennon Seminary is all about.

Fr. John O'Brien

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien, along with their children Matthew, Christopher, Joseph, Mary, and Patrick are parishioners of St. Gianna Catholic Church in Wentzville.

strength and encouragement for all in the seminary community, Archbishop Carlson promises to continue the momentum of his predecessors in promoting vocations to the priesthood. He will add his energy and rich experience in promoting vocations and provide leadership to give direction to the significant efforts already taking place here."

This year the seminary is privileged to serve sixteen dioceses and two religious communities. This current year we have seminarians from one additional diocese (Salina) and one additional religious community (Order of St. Benedict). Thus the seminary continues its tradition as being located in the 'Rome of the West' and serving candidates for priesthood from throughout the Midwest and beyond.

Msgr. Wojcicki added: "The year continues with my heart full of gratitude: to God for calling our seminarians to holy priesthood; to our seminarians for accepting their calls; to our sponsoring bishops for their generous collaboration; to the faculty for their distinguished role in priestly formation; to our alumni for their selfless example of pastoral zeal; to all our benefactors and friends for their support of our mission."

All are invited to enjoy seminarian guided tours, display tables featuring various aspects of seminary life, refreshments, and the opportunity to meet the future priests of the Archdiocese of St. Louis and the Midwest United States.

Visit to Puerto Rico Expands Horizons

BY TIMOTHY FOY

ST. PETER CATHOLIC CHURCH, KIRKWOOD
ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. LOUIS, THEOLOGY III

John Straatmann, Michael Grosch, Daniel Schmitz, Mark Ostrowski, David Voss and I went to Puerto Rico to study Spanish this past summer. We stayed at Regina Cleri Seminary, a diocesan seminary in Ponce, on the island's southern coast.

One of the ways we learned Spanish was through prayer. We prayed Morning and Evening Prayer together in Spanish. Our small community also celebrated Mass in Spanish. In addition to prayer, in the afternoons, we took a class on functional Spanish at the Pontifical Catholic University of Puerto Rico. We traveled most of our weekends, taking trips to the major attractions of Puerto Rico, including a 400 year old coastal fortress known as "El Morro" and a beautiful stretch of beach near Ponce. One of my favorite trips took us to the town of San Germán, where a church constructed in the 1600's has been restored and now houses a collection of religious art from the last several centuries.

The people were wonderful to meet and talk with throughout our stay, especially several Regina Cleri seminarians we befriended. They showed us many places around the island and always maintained a good spirit of fraternity. Looking back on our experience, we will always happily remember the bonds that we formed with the faithful in the Diocese of Ponce.
