

Types of Graduate and Professional Education in Which the Institution's Graduates Enroll

Most seminarians who graduate from Cardinal Glennon College continue to discern a call to the priesthood, and therefore pursue a Master's in Theology or a Master's in Divinity. Normally for the Master's degree, the sending Bishop will agree to enroll the seminarian at Kenrick-Glennon School of Theology. Some graduates may be sent to a Catholic university in Rome, such as the Gregorian, Angelicum, or Holy Cross, where they can specialize in different aspects of theology. At times this post-graduate course of study is aimed at a doctoral degree. The sending Bishop may also choose to enroll the graduate of CGC at another Seminary in the United States for the Master's.

Graduates of the Master's degree programs at Kenrick-Glennon Seminary have also been sent by the sending Bishop to pursue Master's and Doctoral Programs in Philosophy, Theology, and Pastoral Counseling, as well as Techniques in ongoing Divinity and Ministry Development.
